TEXARKANA.—Mett Larey, living 6 miles south of here, near Fouke, went to trial in Circuit Court Wednesday on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of Claude Pillgreen several weeks ago. A jury was obtained at 3 p. m. and the hearing of testimony was begun. Four witnesses were heard before adjournment. The car was recovered two weeks later at Dallas, and Head was returned here, but after his arrival and while waiting for a hearing in a crowded courtroom, he escaped. Chaplin Plays Role in Courtroom in England

LONDON.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin played a courtroom role Tuesday, and didn't like it very well. The comedian, looking the part of complete gravity, gave a performance that failed to impress Judge Tobin. The judge, in fact, was pretty free with his criticism. The upshot of the proceedings was that Chaplin paid 100 pounds and costs to Miss May Shepherd, who claimed back pay for publicity and secretarial services in connection with his visit to England.

Texarkana's New Million-Dollar Federal Building Sits Astride State Line of Texas and Arkansas; Wall Divides Courts of Two States

Here is an architect's drawing of Texarkana's unique federal building and postoffice. The map shows the location of Texarkana and indicates how the building is divided, half in Texas and half in Arkansas.

TEXARKANA, Ark., Tex.—The most unusual federal building and postoffice in the United States, if not in the world, is under construction here. The building is half in one state and half in another, and the federal officials in one state will have nothing whatever to do with the officials in the other state.

The postoffice and federal courts in Arkansas are separated from those in Texas by a solid wall, which rests squarely on the Arkansas-Texas state line. The building faces south, its western half being located in Texas and its eastern half in Arkansas.

Construction of the new federal building and postoffice solves a problem which has long baffled federal authorities. Both the Arkansas and Texas citizens demanded a postoffice in their state and the government could see little sense in building two federal buildings in the same town. Of course, the courts must be held in the separate states. Finally, the present plan was worked out, and after the two cities had purchased the necessary property, the project was begun.

Total cost will be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, with the building itself costing $750,000.

The 1930 census will be used as a basis for computing the changing population.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

8-Year-Old Child Made Ward of State By Court Order

The Testimony Presented Shows Child Mistreated By Her Parents

ITS MOTHER IS DEAD

Forced to Stay in Packing Box in Back Yard of Home

ESCANABA, Mich.—(P)—Judge Judd Yelland, of the Brobate court ruled Wednesday night that Elaine Plucker, eight years old, be made the ward of the State Welfare Department, after testimony was presented that the child, thinly clad, was often kept in a packing box in the yard of her home in all kinds of weather. This hearing was instituted by the girl's grandmother, Mrs. Cora Plucker, who cared for her until her father's remarriage, three years ago. Elaine's mother died when she was two weeks old. Neighbors testified that the girl's father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Plucker, frequently went away from home, locked the house and left the child in the yard.

Hike in Plumbing Fees Is Attacked

Harry Shiver Denounces Changing of Inspection Rates

Editor The Star: Our attention has been called to the news item in your paper that the City Council voted a raise in the Plumbing Inspectors fees from $1 for five fixtures to $5 for five fixtures. As this additional $4 affects the "ultimate consumer" or home owner, we believe it will be of interest to readers of your newspaper to hear a few words on this subject.

For over 15 years the fee charged was only 50 cents for any number of fixtures and the money was paid into the city treasury. For the past three years the fee has been $1 for the first five fixtures and 25 cents for each fixture thereafter, and the city treasury has no record of receiving any fees from this source.

The purpose of a plumbing ordinance is to guard against insanitary plumbing installations and the enforcement officer is termed "plumbing inspector." He is required to be a person with practical experience in the business of plumbing together with other qualifications. Unfortunately we are required to submit our installations for inspection before an inspector who has had no more practical experience in the business of plumbing than we have had in the art of cutting diamonds.

It is as unreasonable for us to have to arbitrarily comply with interpretations of an incompetent inspector as it would be for a member of the bar, a surgeon or pharmacist to appear before us for an examination and be forced to our viewpoint.

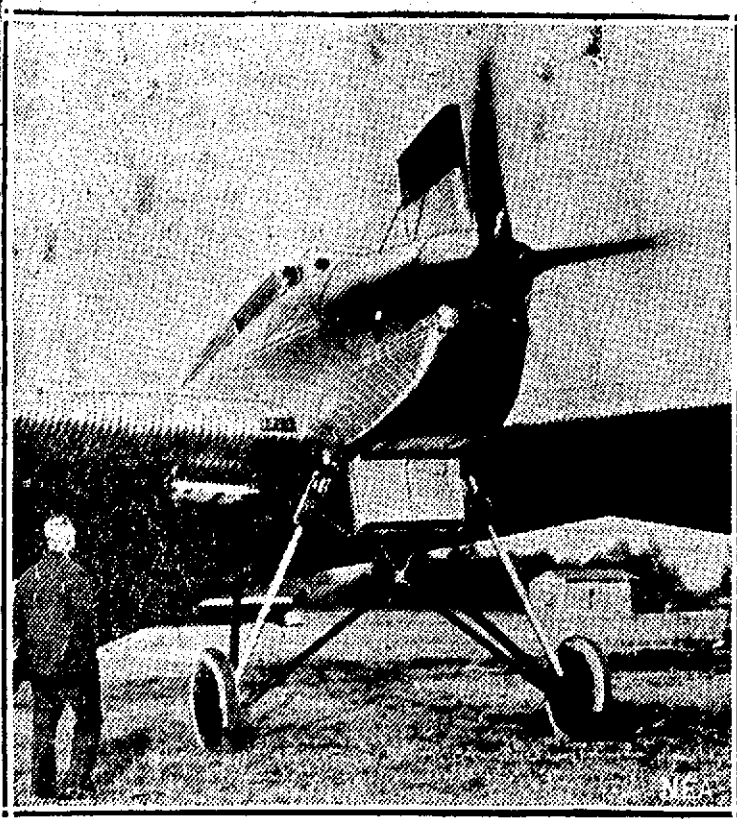

Should the Hope Ordinance be construed to mean some of the interpretations that are placed on it, then the City of Hope will require its home owners to install plumbing that is different from any code we have seen in our 25 years of practical experience, so different from the "Recommended Minimum Requirements for Plumbing" as scientifically arrived at by the Bureau of Standards of the United States that the larger plumbing supply houses and manufacturers do not carry in stock material required under the interpretation as placed on it. We are sure the homeowners are not acquainted with the facts as above stated and believe it is of interest to them, to know that there has been no official report tendered the city as to the permits issued, or the fees collected as required by law, but that this information is confined solely to the plumbing inspector, and checks made to this office are cashed indiscriminately at drug stores, news stands and such for his private gain.

Mason, who retired from the state supreme bench last January, has completed a course at Fort Sill army balloon school and graduated with a night solo flight. The 45-year-old attorney became interested in aviation three years ago.

Plane Groomed for 700-Mile-an-Hour Flight, Fastest Trip Ever Planned

A 700-mile-an-hour flight ten miles above the earth! That's the swift voyage through the stratosphere planned for this newly built monoplane, shown here at a field near Berlin. The plane has a wing span of 82 feet and a crude oil motor.

Etter Takes Over Washington Paper

Telegraph Returns to the Great Grandson of Founder—Established 1839

The Washington Telegraph, Hempstead county's 92-year-old weekly newspaper at the county-seat town, was taken over Thursday by its owner, W. H. Etter, Jr., from F. C. Hawkins, who had managed it for the last three years. Mr. Hawkins began publication Thursday of a new weekly paper at Washington called the Hempstead County News.

Under Mr. Etter's hand the Telegraph appeared Thursday, Vol. 92, No. 48, in a bright new dress. The Washington Telegraph was founded in 1839 by young Mr. Etter's great grandfather of the same name, who came down the Ohio river on a raft from Pittsburgh, Pa., floated down the Mississippi to the mouth of Red river, and came up the Red to locate at Washington, then the principal trade and military post of this section of Arkansas.

When the Washington Telegraph was founded, there were only two other newspapers in Arkansas, the Arkansas Gazette, first at Arkansas Post, and later at Little Rock; and one other paper.

Wife, Son, 12, Held In Lasso Slaying

Woman Says She Roped Husband When He Threatened Boy

FORT PAYNE, Ala.—(AP)—A frail, 42-year-old mother who told officers she "lassoed" her husband with a rope which caused his death by choking, and her 12-year-old son, were placed in the DeKalb county jail Wednesday charged with murder. Warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Willie Roberts and her son, Albert Wood, was issued after the woman led officers to a bin in the rear of her home, where the body of William Roberts, 53, husband and step-father of two, was found buried beneath a pile of cotton seed. Mrs. Roberts told Sheriff Pope she fashioned a noose out of a rope and slipped it over her husband's head early last Sunday when he attempted to attack her son with a knife. The woman said her husband ran into the back yard as she tugged at the rope and he collapsed after attempting to leave through a back gate. With the aid of a younger son, she said the body was lifted into the bin.

Alabama Senator To Be Questioned By Committee

Hope Defeated By Nashville Eleven

Howard County Team Are Victorious in Annual Grid Battle

Playing on a field, soggy from recent heavy rainfall, Nashville defeated Hope Wednesday night in a hard fought football game, the annual Turkey Day clash, postponed from last Thursday. The score at the final whistle stood 20 to 6 in favor of the visiting team.

Nashville, came with a team outweighing the local eleven and from early in the game it was apparent that the game would end in victory for them, even a large score was predicted by many from the sidelines.

Hope has had a good team this year. It is true that the victories have not equalled the losses as far as the scores have been concerned, but they have played good clean football and have been matched against some of the outstanding teams of south Arkansas. The final game of the season was witnessed by a large crowd, many coming from Nashville and other near-by towns.

Admits His Part in Louisiana Robbery

Half Starved and Worn, E. L. Patterson Gives Up to Officers

SHREVEPORT, La.—(AP)—Sheriff T. R. Hughes said Tuesday night that E. L. Patterson, 30, surrendered Tuesday and admitted participation in a robbery near Vivian in which Charlie Jones, 37-year-old store owner, was fatally wounded.

Sheriff Hughes said Patterson was half starved and worn out from exposure when he surrendered near Shreveport. After recital of incidents of the robbery, Sheriff Hughes said Patterson was confronted by Doris Tolett, 23, who is held in connection with the robbery and slaying. Tolett, according to the sheriff, had previously confessed part in the hold-up, but said Patterson did the shooting.

The Americanized Bible

ONE of the most interesting events of the fall is the publication, by the University of Chicago press, of a new "American translation" of the Bible.

For years a group of scholars at the university has worked on a plan to render the Bible in a modern idiom, free of all archaic forms of speech. Now their work has been finished. It is an excellent job, and there are certain passages—notably the 18th and 19th chapters of the gospel of John, where Christ's trial before Pilate is described—that take on a new clarity and a new interest.

But in the main, one lays down this "Americanized" Bible with a new feeling of admiration for the men who rendered the familiar King James version, centuries ago.
 They were absolute masters of English, and they dotted their work with phrases and sentences that cannot be improved on, any more than "King Lear" could be improved by being rendered into Broadwayese.

And that is a point we too often forget. When we count up the great master-works of English literature we speak of Shakespeare's plays, Milton's poems and so on—and forget that the King James Bible (either in the Authorized or Revised Editions), considered purely as literature, is a heritage that can never lose its value as long as any men anywhere can read and speak English.

Consider, for example, the famous quotation from Paul's epistle to the Corinthians—"For now we see as though a glass, darkly." Something is lost when that becomes "For now we are looking at a dim reaction in a mirror," even though the meaning may become a shade more clear.

Nor does the line in Revelations—"And I looked, and behold a pale horse: and his name that sat on him was Death, and Hell followed with him"—retain its original bite when it becomes "And there I saw a horse the color of ashes, and its rider's name was Death, and Hades followed him."

Then there is the thunderous line from Jude—"Wandering stars, to whom is reserved the blackness of darkness forever": its force ebbs out, somehow, when it reads, "Wandering stars, doomed forever to utter darkness."

The new version, to be sure, has been done skillfully and reverently. In the matter of clarity there is a distinct and valuable gain. But the mightiest lines of the old version cannot be improved upon.

Rising From Obscurity

ONE of our favorite traditions is the belief that only in the United States can the son of poor parents rise to the highest position in the land. The "log cabin to the White House" story has convinced us that this is true. Only America holds opportunity for the underdog.

To a certain extent this is true. But there are more exceptions than we generally suppose; and a recent dispatch from Paris by an American newspaperman contains some information that is apt to be surprising.

Europe, this writer points out, is today very largely ruled by men who came from the lower strata of the population.

In England, of course, there is Ramsay MacDonald, brought up in the bleak poverty of a Scottish village, and now prime minister of the empire. Paralleling his case is that of another famous English prime minister, Lloyd George, who was a penniless orphan and who was reared by a shoe-maker.

In France, Premier Laval was the son of a butcher. His family was so poor that he had a hard time getting a decent education. Foreign Minister Briand, similarly, was the son of exceedingly poor parents. Former Premier Herriot is another who came from a poor family.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany did not come from a poverty-stricken family, but his people belonged to the lower middle class. In Czechoslovakia Thomas Masaryk is president, the son of a blacksmith; and another blacksmith's son who rose to power is none other than Benito Mussolini himself. Russia, of course, is ruled by men who came up from the depths, and has been ever since the revolution.

This list is rather impressive. To be sure, it is probably perfectly true that opportunity is still greater on this side of the Atlantic than in Europe. The son of poor parents has more chances. But it is quite obvious that the avenues to fame and riches are by no means closed to him on the other side of the ocean. Europe's so-called ruling class is by no means the closed corporation we generally suppose.

Mr. Dawes isn't responsive to the advances of middle West Republicans who are booming him for another term as vice president. "I'm not in politics an d'm not going it," he says. Moreover, having been there once, he knows what the vice presidency means.

Woman Leaves Murray's Office on Kiss Threat

OKLAHOMA CITY.—(AP)—The threat of a kiss from William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, Oklahoma's mustached governor, shooed Mrs. Pearl Mesta of Washington, active in republican politics, from the governor's office Tuesday.

The chief executive received Mrs.

"I guess that will make them go,"
 he chuckled, as she left.

Mrs. Mesta, a daughter of W. B.

Rains Fail to Cause Ouachita River Flood

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—Although four and a half inches of rain has fallen since Thursday, the Ouachita river at this place has not flooded and Wednesday had fallen to 6.1 feet, from 10.5 which was recorded Monday.
 Remmel and Carpenter dams and the lakes Catherine and Hamilton are holding back the water. A rise of the Caddo river, which empties into the Ouachita four miles north of here, caused the sharp rise to a stage of 10.5 feet Monday, but that has run out and the river is at the comparatively low stage of 6.1 feet here now.

Life, believe, is not a dream,
So dark as some say;
Off a little morning rain
Fortells a pleasant day;
Sometimes there are clouds of gloom,
But those are transient all;
If the showers will make the roses bloom,
Oh, why lament its fall?
Rapidly, merrily, Life's sunny hours fly by,
Gratefully, cheerily,
Enjoy them as they fly.
What the trouble at times steps in,
And calls our Best away?
Yet Hope again elastic springs,
Unconquered she lies;
Still buoyant are her golden wings,
Still strong to bear us well,
Manfully, fearlessly,
The day of trial bear,
For gloriously, victoriously,
Can courage quell despair.—Selected.

The Patsy P. T. A. held a most interesting meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the Patsy school, and the following Christmas program was presented by the first and second grades: Christmas Story from Luke, by the First grade, which was followed by "Christmas Wishes" by the First Grade, Patsy, "A Visit to Santa's Shop," by the second grade. The program closed with a most inspiring devotion by Dr. W. A. Bowen. During the business period, it was decided to hold study class the first week in January.

SUNDAY-MONDAY

Recluse Starved, But Fed Her Cats

The choicest food was none too good for the 25 cats owned by Mrs. Annie Miller, above, wealthy and aged Philadelphia woman who lived in solitude. But she herself died if malnutrition, physicians said, while lavishing care upon her pets. More than $200,000 worth of stocks and bonds were said to have been found in her home.

Among the out of town friends and relatives attending the funeral of the late A. C. Whitehurst which was conducted from the First Christian church, in this city, on Thursday afternoon were Mrs. J. H. Hoffman, daughter of Amarillo, Texas; Mrs. W. T. Milam, sister of Lubbock, Texas; Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Erunk of Texarkana; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Brown of Texarkana, and Irvin Jones of Lubbock, Texas.

Claude Johnson, left Wednesday night for Tuckerman, Arkansas, where he is employed by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company at that place.

ANDERSON, Ind.—Police did not accept the offer of Raymond Riggs, 35, to go to jail after his automobile had hit a 12-year-old boy and knocked him from his bicycle and, 30 minutes later, hit a 10-year-old boy, who suffered concussion of the brain. Riggs' record had shown him to be a careful driver.

Feeding Grain to the Poultry Flock

Three Methods Discussed By Extension Expert in Feeding

The common custom of feeding dry mash is to keep it before the hens, but in feeding grain three methods are being used at the present time.

The oldest method is to feed it in the litter, feeding one-third of the day's ration in the morning and the remaining two-thirds in the late afternoon. This method is unsatisfactory as often grain is left in the litter so it is difficult to determine just how much grain is being consumed, points out G. W. Knox, Jr., Extension poultryman, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture.

The method of feeding grain which is coming into general use is to trough feed it. V-shaped troughs are being constructed from 1 by 6 inch material. The grain is put in this trough morning and night. This method is clean, and the exact amount of grain the hens consume can be regulated. A light feed of grain is given in the morning and a heavy feeding, all the hens will eat, is given at night.

Some poultrymen prefer to hopper feed their grain. That is to keep the grain before the hens at all times. This method is satisfactory, but the amount of grain fed cannot be regulated as easily as in trough feeding.

Usually from 12 to 18 pounds of grain should be fed for each 100 hens per day where the dry mash is kept before them. The exact amount fed varies with the breed and the season of the year. The person feeding his chickens should learn to regulate the amount of grain his birds will eat. During the late fall and winter from 1 1/2 to 2 times as much grain should be fed as in summer.

Prince to Be Banished If He Keeps His Wife

BUDAPEST.—(AP)—Prince Nikolaos of Rumania, has one more day, reports from Bucharest said Wednesday, to renounce his marriage to Mme. Delet, a commoner, or he is exiled from the royal family under a statute which was adopted originally to curb Carol himself.

The king, who spent several years in exile because of an affair with Mme. Magda Lupescu, recently was prevailed upon by his cabinet members, in the interest of his favor with the people, to curb his wrath against his younger brother and he gave Nikolaos two months to think things over.

The prince wrote Carol defiant letters, however, the reports said, and now Carol has decided to banish him unless he repents.

Ex-Actress Held as Husband's Killer

Under arrest charged with having killed her husband, Justin L. Cobb (left), during a quarrel, Mrs. Emily Cobb (right), former musical comedy actress, was treated for severe body lacerations in a Brockton, Mass., hospital. She is alleged to have told authorities that her husband, while intoxicated, threw her down a flight of stairs and then committed suicide.

New Color Camera

LONDON, Eng.—A new invention which may make colored photography as easy and cheap as the taking of ordinary black-and-white camera pictures has just been announced. A new camera is provided with a yellow, a red and a blue plate to each of which light is divided evenly. A specially sensitized paper is the secret of the whole process.

Stuart Stickney and Walter Pfeffer, St. Louis sports enthusiasts, are attempting to revive coursing.

Daniel Boone?

CHESTER, Pa.—Local shoppers were amazed recently when a tall figure appears clad as a backwoodsman, bearing a hunting license on his back and carrying a shotgun. Their amazement turned to consternation when the man fired the gun twice in rapid succession, first at the befuddled hat of a stout woman and then at a red rooster, and commanded a dog with him to bring back the "rabbits." Police put him in a cell to sober up.

Will Rogers, Busiest Man in Hollywood

The business man in the film capital is Will Rogers, actor, wit and philosopher of international renown.

He writes for upwards of 250 newspapers, plays polo, attends banquets and delivers lectures in addition to giving humorous talks over the radio and entertaining royal and political celebrities at his large estate in Beverly Hills, California where, with his wife and daughter and his two sons, he probably entertains more people than Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford do at "Pickfair."

Rogers is particularly shy of newspaper folks and magazine writers. He is a writer himself and gets big money for his gags which are his stock in trade. It isn't good business to give away your stock. And William Penn Adams Rogers is a good business man.

However, once contact is made Rogers will talk a blue streak, but mostly on subjects that do not concern himself, his activities or his family.

He calls his Beverly Hills mansion the "House That Jokes Built." It is a large, comfortable homey place with no frills.

"Every dollar I have I have earned and every one of those dollars represents a joke or a gag," he said recently. "The secret of my success, I've been successful, is keeping young, associating with young people, my children for the most part."

"I never worry and I expect to live to be 100 years old. Happiness means long life and I'm happy always. Worry kills more people than bootleggers. I never stew and I never drink."

Rogers does not smoke, either. He chews gum constantly to keep down his desire to smoke.

In Claremore, Okla., where Rogers lived for many years, there is a pretentious hotel called the Rogers House named for the famous wit, but he has never got excited over the fact.

"I used to envy General Grant and Jesse James and ex-president Arthur because they had cigars named for them, but now I've kinda got it on them. Anyway a hotel is bigger than a cigar."

Youth Attacks Guard, Steals Keys, in Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Clyde Jones, 17, read a detective story last night as he set in his cell at Juvenile Court. It described the escape of blood thirsty killers from their guards.

Jones picked up a piece of a chair and struck his guard, Harry Bailey, 42, several times, and took his keys.

"I got to feeling sorry for him and gave him back the keys," he said Wednesday. "That really was a 'heck of a thing' to do, because I couldn't get out then."

Other officers were summoned and Jones was removed to the city jail pending his delivery to the state reformatory at Nashville where he is to serve a year for forging a $5 check on his father to obtain money to "have a good time with my girl."

The guard was taken to a hospital with a possible fractured skull.

Fifty-two freshmen reported to Coach Forrest Cox at the University of Kansas for basketball practice.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Bondsmen for Sheriff Work to Get Shortage

CLARKSVILLE, Ark. — (P) — E. B. Temple, one of the official bondsmen of Fred M. Russell, Johnson county sheriff and collector, said Wednesday the bondsmen were working on terms for a settlement of a reported $26,700 shortage in Russell's accounts after the grand jury had decided against indicting him.

Russell lacked this amount in his final settlement, and auditors of the state comptroller's office, in disclosing it last week said: "This situation is caused to a great extent by Mr. Russell's desire to help the public of Johnson county by taking up all county warrants that were submitted to him even though he had no moneys belonging to the county general fund and at the time he made his settlements, he of course knew he could not use these county general warrants to settle the accounts of other funds, therefore he was unable to complete his final settlement."

The grand jury now in session made an investigation of the alleged shortage this week but it was announced that it had decided not to indict Russell.

Left-Handedness Shows Increase, Says Scientist

FREMONT, Neb. — (P) — Southpaws are on the increase, says Dr. George Mendenhall, psychology professor at Millard college here.

Mendenhall attributes the increase in left-handedness to the recognition of the theory that children forced to become right-handed after starting as left-handers often become stutters.

Educators, he said, no longer advocate that children be broken of left-handedness. Left-handed children being forced to use their right hands, Dr. Mendenhall
